

Alice Albizzati is the co-founder of Revaia (formerly Gaia Capital Partners), a European growth equity fund whose ambition is to foster the next generation of European tech titans.

Revaia invests in European growth-stage companies with global ambitions and sustainable leadership and helps them navigate the entire life cycle from the growth stage to IPO and beyond. Prior to founding Revaia, Alice was an investor at Verlinvest in New York, a family-owned consumer-focused investment company where she supported leading growth companies such as Vita Coco, Frichti, and Sir Kensington's. Her previous experience includes participating in the financing, structuring and the monitoring of 10+ private equity companies at LBO France and Bpifrance.

Alice graduated from Ecole Polytechnique in Paris and also studied at Bocconi University in Milan and McGill University in Montreal.

---

Alice Albizzati est la co-fondatrice du fonds de growth responsable Revaia (ex-Gaia Capital Partners) dont l'ambition est d'accompagner les futurs champions technologiques européens. Avant de créer Revaia, Alice a exercé en tant qu'investisseur au sein de Verlinvest à New York, société d'investissement spécialisée dans le secteur de la consommation, où elle a accompagné des entreprises de croissance comme Vita Coco, Frichti et Sir Kensington's. Auparavant, elle a participé au financement et au suivi d'une dizaine d'entreprises au sein de LBO France et Bpifrance.

Diplômée de l'Ecole Polytechnique de Paris, Alice a également étudié à l'Université Bocconi de Milan et l'Université McGill à Montréal.